EXPERIENCE

Ralph Lauren

Social Marketing and Content Strategy Assistant

New York, NY

Aug 2024 - Present

- Led end-to-end social strategy for Oak Bluffs 2025, architecting a phased messaging rollout, developing narrative-driven content, and integrating paid and earned media to create a viral cultural moment for the brand; drove 62K new followers, 1.5M total engagements, and 22M reach.
- Architected and deployed an AI automation system for KPI reporting and campaign briefing, becoming the team's appointed AI lead; trained team on adoption, reduced manual reporting by 3+ hours weekly, and developed a year-long roadmap to systematically scale AI integration across team workflows.
- Monitored real-time audience signals during the Australian Open, identifying a cultural talent moment and translating it into a content strategy and creative execution, becoming the brand's highest-ever performing post with 2.4M video views, 1.4M engagements, and producing 48% of total earned brand conversation.
- Developed the messaging framework and orchestrated real-time content execution across 8 platforms during Paris Fashion Week, coordinating with 12+ cross-functional and external teams to ensure strategic and brand alignment; achieved 61M total reach and 74M video views, ranking #1 for video views among competitive set.
- Rebuilt the team's social analytics infrastructure by automating data extraction and creating a self-service metrics dashboard; produced 25+ campaign and seasonal performance reports, synthesizing cross-platform insights into strategic recommendations that directly informed content decisions across global campaigns.
- Owned Instagram, TikTok, and YouTube for the Ryder Cup, developing a platform-tailored content strategy to acquire new golf audiences; conceptualized and executed the tournament's highest-performing organic TikTok through platform-native creative and algorithm optimization, contributing to 39M total reach, 14.5M non-followers reached, and #1 earned social SOV among all competing brand sponsors.

Azul Systems

Marketing Intern

Sunnyvale, CA

Jan 2023 - Apr 2024

- Produced 75 technical glossary definitions translating complex Java and cloud infrastructure concepts into accessible, example-led content for B2B audiences (DevOps engineers and financial stakeholders); developed all examples and product tie-ins to connect technical concepts to business outcomes, generating 115K impressions within 3 months and strengthening Azul's SEO presence in the Java developer community.
- Authored 9 SEO-optimized thought leadership blog posts by independently synthesizing executive video transcripts into brand-aligned, awareness-driving content for the Java developer community; collaborated with Corporate Comms, Content Marketing, and SEO teams to optimize output.
- Developed three buyer persona frameworks by conducting sales interviews and synthesizing competitive analysis, which were adopted by the marketing team to inform targeting across cross-functional initiatives.
